Dear clients.

In order to inform you of Amundi funds' aggregated exposure to Russia, Ukraine and Belarus, please find below an outline of some of our current portfolio. This table shows for a selection of Amundi open-ended investment funds, the percentage of the Net Asset Value (NAV) represented by Russia or Ukraine assets.

We will update these figures on a regular basis, in order to keep you fully informed of the evolving situation

Important notice :

The exposures presented in this document are expressed as a percentage of each portfolio NAV. They correspond to direct exposures to Russian or Ukrainian securities (Equity, Bonds or Convertibles) with a Local or Foreign ISIN and denominated in Russian Ruble / Ukrainian Hryvnia or in a foreign currency.

In this context, (i) some funds have bought protections via Futures and derivatives on Russia which are offering a reduction of the Russian risk, these are derivative contracts which are not being taken into account in the direct exposures reported here, (ii) some funds may be invested in other funds that have exposure to Russia and/or Ukraine, this indirect exposure is not taken into account in the direct exposure reported here.

In particular for the 3 following funds (Amundi Funds Emerging Markets Hard Currency Bond – Amundi Funds Emerging Markets Green Bond – Amundi Funds Emerging Markets Corporate Bond) the combined exposure to Russia taking into account these derivatives is close to null or even negative. The published exposures are front positions confirmed with our market counterparties.

The published exposures are front positions confirmed with our market counterparties.

Given that prices of Russian securities are adjusted in accordance with Amundi's pricing policy made available on Amundi's website, this is reflected in the current aggregate weight of Russian securities at fund level. A low or zero exposure rate does not mean that the portfolio no longer has Russian securities but reflects the current valuation of Russian securities in a context where assets are not able to be transacted.

This information is intended internationally. The list of funds displayed in this document aggregates all funds independently of their countries of registration.

Not all Funds or sub-funds of the Fund are necessarily registered or authorised for sale in all jurisdictions or available to all investors. Investors are advised to consult the Amundi local website to check the availability of the Funds in their country.
